CAMDEN BIG PICTURE LEARNING ACADEMY (CBPLA)

Doctoral Dissertation-Research Study- Melissa Herder

It is recommended that permission be granted for the Camden City School District to have Melissa Herder, Wilmington University student, to conduct a research study, as part of her doctoral dissertation, "A Qualitative Study of Integration of a Computer-Assisted Learning Curriculum at a Project-Based Learning High School in the State of New Jersey" at Camden Big Picture Learning Academy High School. (8 participants are needed for the study). There will be no cost to the Board.

The purpose of this qualitative study is to investigate whether there will be benefits for students using the computer-assisted learning platform for learning within the project-based learning school as evidenced by the perceptions of the faculty within the school, in addition to the school leadership plan to execute the implementation of a learning model that blended project-based learning and computer-assisted learning.

The survey and interview results will be pooled for dissertation and individual results of the study and will remain confidential and anonymous.

To ensure that the teachers are protected, Melissa Herder, has agreed to provide the District with Wilmington University's approved informed consent document, and recruitment information, before she recruits participants at Camden City School District.

Camden City School District or Camden Big Picture Learning High School will not be used in any publications or presentations and Melissa Herder will protect data to the best of her ability. Melissa Herder has agreed to provide a copy of the study results, in aggregate, to Camden City School district.
