Camden’s Free “Flu” Immunization Clinic

“Flu” (Influenza) immunization will be given at no cost

Camden, NJ –Each year hundreds of Camden’s youngest learners cannot return to school in January because they do not have up-to-date influenza vaccinations. The District is partnering with several different medical centers by hosting free “flu” immunization clinics throughout the month of December and January at various locations throughout the city. The district's goal is to ensure all pre-k students are vaccinated to help them remain safe, healthy, and in school.

“Now, more than ever, it is very important for our young people to get all of their immunizations up-to-date,” said Superintendent Katrina T. McCombs. “Early learning is so critical – and our youngest learners cannot afford to miss even one day due to not having the right shots. On behalf of the district, thank you to the many medical centers for partnering with us to ensure our students remain safe and ready for the upcoming year.”
