Camden City School District and the City of Camden Department of Human Services to Host Citywide Middle School Track Meet

Camden, NJ – Over 200 middle school students from across the city will gather at the Camden Athletic Complex Field on May 31, 2023 for the inaugural citywide middle school track meet. The event, organized by the Camden City School District and the City of Camden Department of Human Services, encourages young athletes to showcase their athletic abilities and compete with their peers.

The track meet will include various events, such as sprint and relay races, and field events, including the shot put and long jump. The competition is open to all middle school students in the City of Camden regardless of the school type, and schools are encouraged to organize teams to participate. The event provides a platform for young athletes to gain valuable skills, including teamwork, discipline, and sportsmanship. It also allows students to form new friendships and build a sense of community. Additionally, the event is an excellent opportunity for students to stay active and healthy.
